

Terms & conditions: Once an event is booked, either directly online or by telephone, we do not under any circumstances refund the kcdating fee for customer cancellations, failing to attend the booked event, or leaving the event before the completion of the speed dating session. We reserve the right to charge a penalty fee, the amount charged not exceeding our standard single fee for that event, if without notifying us before the commencement of the event, a booked customer fails to attend, or attends, but leaves before the speed dating session gets under way, consequently harming our gender balance for the event. If the designated venue for a particular event has a maintenance problem on the evening of the event and the consequence being that the venue becomes unavailable for our event on that evening we will re-book the customer onto a future event in the same city or town but not offer a cash refund of either the whole or part of the event fee. In the unlikely circumstances of an indisposition to the evenings host or the host is unable to reach the venue on time due to either bad weather conditions or transport problems, the consequence being that the particular event is unable to proceed as planned, we will re-book the customer onto a future event in the same city or town but not offer a cash refund of either the whole or part of the event fee. For any particular kcdating event, we do not guarantee either the total numbers of participants, or the individual number of participants for each gender. We cannot give any undertaking that customers, who have previously attended a kcdating event, will not be present at any subsequent event. We reserve the right to request that a customer leaves immediately at any time during the event, without recourse to a refund, if their behaviour disrupts the smooth running of the evening, or causes distress to another customer, the kcdating hosts, or the venue management and staff. We take no responsibility for issuing telephone numbers following a successful date match, of user names that may have not been either written down correctly by the participant, or the participant having a change of mind as regards their ticking a particular name. Any subsequent meeting between the successful date match individuals is purely a matter between the two people, for which we take no interest or responsibility as towards the outcome of such a meeting.

KCDATING respect and understand the importance of your privacy and will never sell, share, or otherwise transfer your personal information to any third parties.

When registering with you will be required to provide your home address email address and telephone details plus other personal information.

This information is used for:

1. Adding you to the mailing list, and or
2. Registering you for KCDATING event. When your information is collected, it will only be used to advise you of forthcoming events & for correspondence relating to any events for which you have booked. If you register with KCDATING your information is added to our email mailing and text list, which you can request to be removed from, if required.

When participating in a speed dating event, you are giving us permission to forward your landline/mobile telephone numbers and in certain circumstances your email address to your successful Date Matching partners. We will only divulge the name that was your designated user name for the event which could be either a novelty name of your own choice via an online booking or your first name with maybe the initial of your surname or a similar type combination which KCDATING has chosen from a telephone booking. A 'match' simply occurs when two people both tick each other on their scorecards.

We will not forward your email address or telephone numbers to any other guest at the event, without your prior consent. We NEVER, under any circumstances, pass on your contact email address telephone number or home address to ANY guest

If in the unlikely circumstances KCDATING did not have enough people booked onto any particular listed speed dating event to make it in our opinion a viable successful evening we reserve the right to re-schedule the event to an alternative date and possibly an alternative venue in the same city. We would not offer refunds if this occurred but credit notes valid at the re-scheduled event, or if that date did not suit the credit note would be valid at any other KCDATING event within a 12 month period of the postponed event.
